Located at the intersection of Spokane Avenue and Lake Highland Drive this Community Garden joins the growing network of urban agricultural greenspaces in the Orlando Metro area. It also demonstrates an active vision of urban renewal in the 21st century and greater interest in sustainability.

It’s composed of eighteen 4x8 plots. 16 of the plots are dedicated to fresh produce production for the families of the Colonialtown neighborhood. Two of the plots are tended by the Colonialtown North Community After School Program. The garden adds a sustainable green space to a residential neighborhood that is evolving towards an organic urbanism.

The garden is located next to Colonialtown Park, and Ferncreek Elementary School. For more information visit the Colonialtown neighborhood association:
