

Department of Psychology Minor Map Important Information

The Department of Psychology changed its curriculum effective beginning in the 2010-2011 academic year.

Students who declared their minor in the Spring, 2010 or earlier use the second minor map in this document. The second minor map reads “Effective Spring, 2007” at the top and includes PSY 101: Introduction to Psychology as a Core Course. Be aware that some of the course names and numbers may have changed since this document was written, but it should be fairly easy for you to tell what courses you need to take. Please see your academic advisor if there is any confusion.

Students who declared their major in the Fall, 2010 or later use the first minor map in this document. The first minor map reads “Effective Fall, 2010” at the top and includes PSY 150: Perspectives in Psychology as a Foundations Course.

Effective Fall 2010

The Psychology Major and Minor use the methods and content of psychological science to teach students to (1) understand the reasons behind their own and others' behavior; (2) become competent and critical decision makers; (3) respect human diversity; and (4) fulfill their social responsibilities. With an emphasis on experiential learning and laboratory courses, scientific rigor, quantitative literacy, and verbal and written communication skills, the psychology major provides an excellent background for students planning to join the workforce upon graduation and for those planning to continue their education in graduate school.

Nine (9) courses are required.

Effective Spring 2007

The psychology program reflects the breadth, excitement, and rigor of scientific inquiry into human behavior and experience. It serves four groups of students:

- those who want to sample the discipline;
- those who think psychology might enrich their main academic/professional interest -- business administration, education, religion and philosophy, sociology, anthropology, creative writing, health sciences, or law;
- those who need psychology for "helping professions" -- human resources, secondary teaching, vocational and educational guidance, special education, early childhood education, or day-care work; and
- those who intend to pursue a career in professional psychology -- college or university teaching, research, or clinical or industrial psychology.

Seven (7) courses are required.
