

Major Map: Sociology

Effective Fall 2015

The Sociology Program at Rollins College consists of a rigorous curriculum designed to promote sociological literacy and engaged citizenship; to enhance students' awareness and understanding of twenty-first century social problems, including the enduring presence of class, race and gender inequalities; and to cultivate among students the theoretical and methodological skills to investigate the connections between individuals and society, and the possibilities for social change.

Ten (10) courses are required, six (6) of which must be taken at Rollins.
All core courses must also be taken at the College.
