Ward Park and Cady Way Park is a community park complex home to Showalter Field, Larry Gergley Field, and Bob Mosher Track for Winter Park High School, track and field competitions, and Rollins College teams. A wide variety of recreational and youth sporting events including Winter Park Little League are held at the 10 baseball and softball fields, and 5 soccer fields. The park features a variety of amenities that include tennis courts, playground equipment and picnic facilities. The park also contains an Olympic size pool that is operated by the Central Florida YMCA. The park is the early morning meeting location for over 500 area runners that run regularly through the streets of Winter Park in a training program sponsored by Track Shack.

Ward Park and Cady Way Park, is a key destination on the Cady Way Bike Trail. The park is located on the Cady Way trail, which covers over 10 miles of abandoned rail trails. There is convenient parking for both bikers and walkers. From Cady Way park there is easy access to Baldwin Park and Fashion Square Mall to the south and the Cross Seminole Trail to the north. The Cady Way Trail was built on the abandoned East Florida and Atlantic Railroad, which later became the Seaboard Air Line Railway.

Ward Park is less than ¼ mile Winter Park Memorial Hospital and surrounded by Winter Park Pines, a single family residential neighborhood.
